

ASK A DUMMY: VINCE AND LARRY'S ADVICE COLUMN

Dear Vince and Larry,

What do you want for Christmas?

#happyholidays

@ksxmas

Vince: Well...

Larry: I know! A new black sports car with a big red bow on top!

Vince: I was going to say an end to the pandemic.

Larry: Well, yeah. And that, too. So we can all go car shopping!

Vince: What kind of car do you want?

Larry: Number one: horsepower. Number two: off roading potential. Number three: horsepower.

Vince: Because you drive uphill both ways in the snow to get to school?

Larry: Well, no.

Vince: And, of course, you'd never use all that horsepower to race anybody.

Larry: Yeah, anybody!

Vince: What?

Larry: I mean, no. Never.

Vince: I see those fingers crossed. Larry, racing is dangerous and illegal.

Larry: What if we use an empty road?

Vince: No road is completely empty. Even if there are no bystanders, wildlife could cross the road. Or you could drift out of your lane and hit a ditch, fence or tree.

Larry: Whatever. I can handle it.

Vince: It's not a toy. Your vehicle is harder to control at higher speeds, which means you're WAY more like to crash that shiny new car or truck and hurt yourself or others.

Larry: Wait. I don't want to scratch the sweet paint job.

Vince: Exactly.

Larry: But that doesn't mean I have to drive like grandma!

Vince: There is a secret to her long life.

Larry: What?

Vince: Buckle up and drive SAFE!
