

ASK A DUMMY: VINCE AND LARRY'S ADVICE COLUMN

Dear Vince and Larry,

Why even have SAFE this school year? Everything is so different!

@wheatyeet

Vince: You're right, school is a lot different this year.

Larry: And yet, I still have to take a math class.

Vince: You and your friend may not be driving as much -

Larry: There's nowhere to go!

Vince: But I'll bet you still find yourself driving or riding with others pretty often.

Larry: Like when we skip calculus?

Vince: NO.

Larry: It's kind of hard to skip when it's online, anyway.

Vince: No matter where you're going, it's still important to buckle up and drive SAFE.

Larry: What if we're just going on a quick snack run?

Vince: Are you in a vehicle?

Larry: Yeah.

Vince: Then buckle up!

Larry: It's going to take a lot of caffeine for me to survive calculus. Guess I'll just have to make seatbelts part of the equation!
